

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

An electromotive adjustment device for adjusting a control element includes a housing and a gear mechanism which has a plurality of intermeshing gear wheels to define a drive train. In driving relationship with the gear mechanism is a drive motor which is constructed as a brushless motor with an external rotor and includes an output journal, whereby the output journal has a tooth portion in engagement with a helical spur gear wheel of the gear mechanism.